

SNU-UC SAN DIEGO JOINT WEBINAR SERIES

Women, Work, and Family in South Korea

April 12 (Monday) | 5-6 p.m. PDT

April 13 (Tuesday) | 9-10 a.m. in Seoul

This joint webinar series between Seoul National University and University of California San Diego is designed to be a forum for discussion of new research and major policy issues in Korea. We hope that you will join us.

REGISTER HERE (LINK)

South Korea's fertility rate is among the lowest in the world, with a total fertility rate of less than 1 birth per woman. In this talk, we study how women's work and family outcomes have changed across birth cohorts and discuss why women in South Korea seem to be increasingly forgoing "family."

JISOO HWANG is an Associate Professor of Economics at the College of Liberal Studies, Seoul National University. She is an applied micro-economist, with research interests in labor and family economics. She received her B.A. in Economics at Seoul National University in 2008 and her Ph.D. in Economics at Harvard University in 2013.

Website: www.jisoohwang.com

This series has received generous support from the Korea Foundation and the National Research Foundation of Korea (NRF-2020S1A3A2A02104190).