2009

Welcome to the Conference.

We are witnessing changing world: the deep recession has forced many governments in the developed world to change their paradigms of public policy. In this difficult time, we should also pay our special attention to poverty in the developing countries. This international conference aims to discuss poverty-reduction policies in the context of economic and social development.

This conference is co-organized by UN Research Institute for Social Development and BK21 Programme at GSPA, SNU. Distinguished scholars and experts of the UNRISD network will present their research findings on Poverty Reduction and Policy Regimes. We will be able to compare poverty reduction policies in different countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America and Europe from a policy-regime perspective and to answer how different policy regimes have responded poverty. This conference is also co-hosted by Social Protection in Asia (SPA), Seoul Association of Public Administration (SAPA), Graduate School of Public Administration, Korea Institute of Public Affairs, Research Institute of Public Information Management, and supported by Centre for Social Service Management.

While examining different countries' experiences of poverty reduction, the conference will also discuss the policy regime in Korea that enabled the country not only to manage successful economic development but also to reduce poverty effectively. In the current context in which the Republic of Korea is about to join the Development Assistance Committee (DAC), OECD as an emerging donors, member countries of United Nations expect the Republic of Korea to play a bigger role in the area of international development. The Korean government and the public at large alike are keen to contribute to global efforts for poverty reduction. This conference will be an excellent opportunity to discuss Korea's policy for international development.

We would like to express our great appreciation to the scholars from here and abroad for their effort to make this conference an important forum for poverty reduction debates: from South Africa, Chile, India, Indonesia, Taiwan, Switzerland, the UK and the Netherlands. We believe that your contributions will be valuable not only for the conference but also poverty reduction efforts for the poor.
